

Queensland Law Society

The Queensland Law Society and the Taipei Bar Association agree to enhance the relationship between our organisations to facilitate:

- mutual exchange of information about our respective legal systems and our respective organisations
- reciprocal attendance at legal conferences of each organisation with the opportunity to present papers if and when appropriate
- investigation of the feasibility of establishing an exchange system whereby lawyers in each country can gain work experience in the other country and the establishment of such an exchange system
- exploration of other potential projects to the mutual benefit of both organisations and their members, such as legal education and rule of law issues.

Dated Friday, 5 September 2003 at the Taipei Bar Association, Roosevelt Road, Taipei, Taiwan, Republic of China.
